OFFICER BOOTH'S STATEMENT.

Story That He Flourished a Revolver Before One Beckman He Declares False.

Editor Times: Kindly do me the justice to give the enclosed letter publicity concerning my arrest upon a civil charge. While I do not question the fact that Officer Slayton served a body writ on me and that this writ contained the charges as outlined in a public story, I do say that each and every charge upon the face of that warrant was such as was not borne out by the facts in the case. In the first place, I did not flourish a loaded revolver in this Beckman's face, as I can prove by unquestioned testimony that I had no revolver in my possession at the time mentioned—which, by the way, was Feb. 11th, not March the first as stated in this writ.

In fact, I never placed Beckman under arrest at all upon the occasion referred to. To be brief, Beckman was making considerable noise upon the street at the time, and upon his neglect to keep proper order when requested, I told him to come with me to the police station. This he did of his own free will, without any coercion from me whatever; and after arriving at the station I gave him a friendly talking to and he promised to go home peacefully. If I erred in my duty as a patrolman, it was in showing leniency, but our Barre patrolmen often try to give a man a little good advice instead of railroad him into prison, and this plan has always been approved of. I have in my possession, a signed statement by which it can be seen that Beckman himself bears out these claims, and I believe that it is time to call a halt to the methods adopted by certain people in this city. George Booth.
